ABSTRACT OF THE DISCLOSURE

[22] A microscope system for detecting and compensating for changes within a recorded image content of a microscopic specimen is disclosed. A means for calculating signatures of a recorded multidimensional image (50) is provided. A means for calculating statistical signature parameters is also provided. Multiple positioning motors and/or actuators on the microscope receive from the software module control signals that can be ascertained from the signature parameters.